DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

Applicant's amendment filed 15 August 2003 has been received and entered. The status of the claims is as follows: Claims 1-31, 33-37, 39, 44-106, 108, 111-119 are canceled and claims 32, 38, 150, and 162 have been amended as requested. Claims 32, 38, 40-43, 107, 109-110, 120-162 are pending and under consideration in the instant Office action.

The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Any objection or rejection of record which is not expressly repeated in this action has been overcome by Applicant's response and withdrawn.

Applicant's arguments and amendments filed in the response of August 15, 2003 have been fully considered, but they are not fully persuasive for the reasons that follow.

Claim Objections

Claim 139 remains objected to because of the following informalities: in the second to last line of the claim, there is a comma between "yellowtail" and "tuna", however, a fair reading of the art would suggest that "yellowtail" is used to describe a type of tuna for which the amino acid sequence of growth hormone from this species is described (see Watahiki (1988)). Therefore, the comma which appears between the terms "yellowtail" and "tuna" should be deleted. Appropriate correction is required.

It is additionally noted that this error also occurs at page 17, line 21 of the specification. If Applicant has evidence that "yellowtail" and "tuna" are used in the art to describe two different species of fish and their corresponding species of growth hormone were known in the art at the time of the instant invention, this objection will be withdrawn.

Applicant's comments regarding the use of the plural "growth hormones" in claim 139 is noted. However, for clarification, the use of the term "growth hormone" is being interpreted as those molecules which correspond to and are species homologs of the growth hormone in bovine and humans with the known amino acid sequences described in the instant specification. Therefore, species variants which could be deletion variants, allelic variants, truncation variants, etc. are what would be considered "growth hormones". The use of the term "growth hormones" in the claim is not interpreted as any member of the growth hormone superfamily, and therefore would not encompass prolactin, placental lactogen, etc. If Applicant disagrees with this interpretation, the instant claim could be subject to a new ground of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

Claims 159-160 remain rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention for the reasons of record.

Claims 159 and 160 recite "at least as large in volume as proline" and " at least as large in volume as leucine", which renders the claims unclear and indefinite for the reasons of record. Applicant indicates a willingness to replace the present limitations with a list of amino acids that are intended by the current limitations. Amendment of the claims to recite a list of the amino acids which are to be substituted would obviate this ground of rejection.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 40-43, 107, 109-110, 120-138, 140-158, 161-162 are allowed.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
